The Expected Nominations Fail to Materialize in the Executive Session this Afternoon.

Cleveland Requests the Senate to Prolong its Life Until Next Thursday.

The Railroad and Agricultural Commissioners Named by the President but not Read.

The Senate.

By Telegram to THE SENTINEL.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 27.—The senate met at noon and immediately went into executive session. The committee appointed to wait upon the president reported that they had performed their duty and that the president had expressed a wish that the senate should remain in session until next Thursday. When the doors reopened the senate adjourned until Monday, after confirming the postmaster's nomination Wednesday.

Hon. Henry Shel, solicitor of the treasury, has tendered his resignation, to take effect on the appointment of his successor.

Several nominations were expected to go to the senate this afternoon, but an early adjournment prevented their being read. Among them is said to be Gen. Joseph E. Johnston, of Virginia, commissioner of railroads; Norman J. Coleman, of Missouri, commissioner of agriculture. Mr. Coleman is a resident of St. Louis, about sixty years old and was for many years editor of the Rural Home, an agricultural paper published at St. Louis.

NOTES.

Ex-Secretary Lincoln will go to Chicago to-morrow to attend the funeral of General Anson Stager.

Senator Mahone made a report from the committee on public buildings and grounds, favoring a substitution of electric for gas lights in the senate.

Secretary Manning appointed J. E. Maxon, superintendent of the construction of the new public building at Council Bluffs, Iowa, vice C. J. King, resigned.

Edward Bryant, of Madison, Wis., new assistant attorney-general of the postoffice department, was in consultation to-day with Mr. Freeman, the incumbent officer, in regard to the law business of the department. He will not qualify until April 1.

The secretary of the treasury prepared a circular letter to the collectors of customs, requesting information as to the practicability of reducing the expense of collecting revenue from customs by curtailing the present force of clerks and other employees.

The Fire Record.

By Telegram to THE SENTINEL.

DETROIT, March 27.—The Michigan Carbon works, at Rougeville, a suburb of this city, has been on fire since 1 o'clock this morning and is still raging. The loss may reach half a million dollars. Insurance $200,000.

LATER.

At one o'clock this morning, a fire broke out in the dry kiln of the Michigan Carbon works at Rougeville, near Detroit. The bone block building almost instantly caught and the flames spread rapidly. The hand engines, with which the works are supplied, were entirely inadequate to cope with a fire of such magnitude and help was asked from the city fire department, and three engines were sent to the rescue.

By five o'clock the fire was under control. The bone block building, fertilizer building and east two-thirds of the bone shed are totally destroyed. The entire west end of the works were saved. The owners say they cannot yet tell the loss, but it is estimated at $150,000; insurance $35,000.

The only person injured was Isaac Burke, general yard foreman, who fell from the building and broke his shoulder blade. The fire was caused by an explosion of gas in the kiln room. The company employs 170 men, but the works will be at once rebuilt and none of them will be thrown out of employment.

OAKLAND FLAZE.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., March 27.—There are rumors of a hundred thousand dollar fire at Oakland City, Ind. We have sent for a special dispatch, and will send it to the Associated Press when it is received.

An American Citizen Charged with Being a Deserter From the British Army.

By Telegram to THE SENTINEL.

NEW YORK, March 26.—Mrs. Robert Ireland, who complained at the district attorney's office yesterday that her husband had been kidnapped to Canada by English officials, and he was about to be taken to England to be tried as a deserter from her majesty's army, today showed a letter her husband sent her. The letter is dated on board a steamer at Halifax. It tells that when the writer had reached Clifton, on the Canadian shore, whether he went with John Steele in the belief that he was going to Boston, he was confronted by two men, one who said, "We want you, you are a deserter from the British army."

Ireland replied: "I am an American citizen." "That is no matter," said the man, "you are not in the United States now." Ireland's money and writing materials were taken from him and he was removed to Halifax and placed on a steamer under guard. He could not learn the name of the steamer, but wrote that she had a red smoke stack. He was detained below and not allowed to speak to any person except the guard. This individual told the prisoner that there were two others like him aboard the vessel.

Ireland was warned that if he made any difficulty it would be all the worse for him before the court martial.

An Embroiderer's Suicide.

By Telegram to THE SENTINEL.

WHEELING, W. Va., March 26.—The city was horrified to-night to hear of the suicide of Wm. D. Cushing, arrested for embezzlement. He was a young man well thought of in the city, and held the confidence of his employers. Cushing was taken before the justice at 6 o'clock this evening and gave bail for his appearance next Tuesday. He went home and shot himself and died a short time afterward.

Demanding General Grant's Testimony.

By Telegram to THE SENTINEL.

NEW YORK, March 26.—The trial of Ex-President Jas. D. Fish continued to-day. The counsel for the defense said, addressing the court, that it was understood at the beginning of the trial that the testimony of General Grant would be taken.

De Bero, counsel, desired to take his testimony in several matters at this stage and would like to arrange when it could be done. The difficulty was that the counsel could not dispense with the testimony of Grant, because it was more essential than any other testimony which the counsel wished to put in evidence. After consulting with U. S. Grant, jr., it was arranged that the deposition of General Grant be taken by a notary in the presence of the counsel for the general and defense at a time most convenient to the general.

GENERAL GRANT'S TESTIMONY.

In the trial of ex-President Fish, of the Marine bank, General Grant was examined to-day at his residence by the counsel of both parties. It was about 4:30 when the counsel arrived at the house. The general had just returned from a drive through the park. He took a reclining position in an arm chair and put his feet upon another chair, as the lawyers began their questioning. It was agreed between the counsel that the testimony of the witness to be taken, subject to objection to be stated at the reading thereof in court to-morrow. Administering the oath was waived, the deposition being taken with the same effect by consent of the counsel. The general's memory as to details was defective, but where in the counsel seemed particularly anxious to get an answer the witness tried to connect the event or date with something else that occurred about the same time and thus got the answer desired. His evidence was given in a perfectly calm manner without any show of personal feeling against any one. He told all he knew about the firm of Grant & Ward, even to the circumstances of his entering the firm. Once or twice the witness was asked if he were tired, but he each time answered that he was not. When the examination was concluded a short chat took place between the general and the lawyers. In the course of it General Smith remarked that he thought the patient was looking quite well.

"Well," said General Grant in reply, somewhat slowly and seriously, "I know I am a very sick man."

The particulars of the testimony are to be first made known when the evidence is read in the court to-morrow.

FOR BLOOD.

England Ablaze with Enthusiasm.

The Reserve Troops Respond Without Delay.

An Ultimatum Sent to the Russian Government To-day.

The Shipyards and Barracks Scenes of Great Activity.

The War Feeling Strong.

By Cable to THE SENTINEL.

LONDON, March 27.—The queen will start for Aix-les-Bains Monday. The queen's message yesterday calling out the reserves and militia has been received by the country with great enthusiasm. The enthusiasm is especially marked at the various military stations throughout the kingdom. Everywhere active efforts are being exerted to get the barracks ready for the reserves and have arms and accoutrements at hand to equip them. Immense stores of arms are at the tower ready to be distributed when required. The war feeling is strong among the reserves and many already joined the guards before orders summoning them to go to service were received.

AN ULTIMATUM.

The Globe says that a proposal par-taking of the nature of an ultimatum was telegraphed by the government to St. Petersburg yesterday. It requested at the same time that the Russian government should send an answer that would reach Downing street not later than Monday next.

The Globe also declares that Earl Granville on the 18th instant proposed to Russia that both Russians and Afghans should withdraw from that portion of the territory at present subject to dispute and remain outside it during the continuance of negotiations, then in progress at London. To this proposal Russia sent no reply until last Wednesday. She refused to accede to England's proposition on the ground that the withdrawal of her troops would be a source of humiliation to Russia. After this answer was received cabinet decided to embody the reserves and militia and send the ultimatum already referred to.

WAR PREPARATIONS.

LONDON, March 26.—Great preparations are being made at Albershot for the reception of the army reserve forces and the militia called out by the queen's message.

Quarters are ready at Chatham for a large force.

The greatest activity prevails in the ordnance department in hastening the armament of vessels for immediate service. Extra hands are employed.

All the available quarters at Chelton have been made ready for occupancy.

THE NAVAL RESERVE CALLED OUT.

It is reported that the naval reserves will be immediately called out for service. The government has given contracts for 100,000 uniforms.

The total reserve force of the navy in 1884 was 20,500.

MARCH ON MOSCO.

Active preparations are making to get all the available cruisers and iron clads belonging to the navy into condition for active service as soon possible. It is known that the destination of these vessels is the Baltic sea and Black sea entrance, the latter, however, being conditioned on the assent of Turkey.

VIA GERMANY.

BERLIN, March 27.—The North German Gazette says Bismarck's organ states that during the recent official visit of Count Herbert Bismarck to London the relation between Russia and England was not discussed. The Gazette also says it is not true that Emperor William communicated with the czar on the Afghan dispute between Russia and England.

COMING OUT.

The members of the third royal fusiliers and fifth rifle brigade, both militia organizations, are responding largely to the queen's call for volunteers to serve with the regulars.

GRANVILLE TALKS.

LONDON, March 27, 6 p. m.—In the house of lords this evening, Granville, replying to Marquis Salisbury, said that there was nothing to denote a tendency to flinch on the part of the government regarding the Afghan question. The government is firmly adhering to the policy agreed upon by both the great political parties, while at the same time they were availing themselves over making a satisfactory solution of the difficulty.

WATCHING IRELAND.

LONDON, March 27.—In the event of war 25,000 militia will be assigned to garrison duty in Ireland and that number of regulars will be released for active service.

RUSSIA'S CHANCE.

PARIS, March 27.—Captain Abnoff, governor of Merv, who induced the khan of Merv and other chiefs to petition Russia for annexation, in an interview to-day said: "Russia should seize Herat before England gets an opportunity to fortify it. Russia will never have a better chance of securing Herat than the present."

THE CONSOLS.

LONDON, March 27, 12:30 p. m.—Consols 96½ for both money and account. Stocks are very dull and falling. Foreign markets flat.

UNEASY.

2 p. m.—An uneasy feeling prevails and little business is doing. The home funds are slightly better; foreign funds continue to weaken. The home and American railway securities are unsettled.

A LITTLE LATER.

LONDON, March 27—4 p. m.—Consols for money, 96 15-16; for account, 97.

The French in Tonquin.

By Cable to THE SENTINEL.

PARIS, March 26.—A dispatch from General Negrier, dated Dong Dang, March 24, says:

"The Chinese attacked Dong Dang Sunday. I advanced Monday and captured the first line of the forts defending their camp at Bangboon. To-day renewed efforts were made by us against the enemy, but these proved unavailing in the face of superior numbers. Our artillery ammunition is exhausted and we returned to Dong Dang. Our loss in killed and wounded numbers 200.

PARIS, March 27.—Thirteen French officers were killed at Dong Dang in Tuesday's fighting. General Negrier's position is an exceedingly perilous one. Forty thousand Chinese troops are massed on the frontier not far distant. The Figaro urges the French forces to immediately march upon Canton.

SEVERE COMMENTS.

All the morning newspapers contain articles on the French reverses at Dong Dang. A few editorials severely criticize the government for dilatoriness in rendering reinforcements to Tonquin, but the majority are very warm in their denunciation of the cabinet's Chinese policy. Rochefort has an editorial on the debate in chamber of deputies last evening on the interpellation upon the present state of the Franco-Chinese war. The article concludes with the following words: "Cease to question ministers and invoke the guillotine."

SUAKIM, March 26.—Skirmish parties of troops are engaged in clearing the bushes of Arabs along the road to Tamai. The telegraph wires between Suakim and the advanced British position have been cut by the enemy.

A Murderer Hung.

By Telegram to THE SENTINEL.

GRAYSON, Ky., March 27.—Wm. Neal, the last of the Ashland murderers, was hanged to-day. He was firm and composed and died protesting his innocence.

Van Zandt.

PARIS, March 27.—Miss Van Zandt has written the director of the Opera Comique, saying she will not sing in Paris any more.

Meat Orders From England.

By Telegram to THE SENTINEL.

CHICAGO, March 27, 10:10 a. m.—The Armour Packing company yesterday received another cable order from the British war department for 8,000 additional cases of canned beef, representing about 650,000 pounds and another proposal for 10,000 additional cases, which, however, could not be filled within the time specified. The statement is made that the orders already on hand have divested all the establishments in the country engaged in this particular industry of their available stocks.

Small Pox an Epidemic.

By Telegram to THE SENTINEL.

ST. LOUIS, March 27.—Small Pox is raging as an epidemic at Mound City, Ill. Fifty cases are reported and eight deaths occurred during the present week. The disease is confined almost entirely among the negroes, only two white families being infected. Vigorous measures are being used to suppress the scourge.

The Chicago Market.

By Telegram to THE SENTINEL.

CHICAGO, March 27, 10:45 a. m.—The markets opened madly excited this morning and the great scene of interest was the wheat pit and during the first quarter of an hour trading was very unsatisfactory, the prices varying one half and one cent in various portions of the pit.

The Indian War.

By Telegram to THE SENTINEL.

WINNEPEG, March 27.—Chief Rial captured Major Crozier and 100 mounted police after a fight in which several were killed.

General Grant.

By Telegram to THE SENTINEL.

NEW YORK, March 27.—General Grant rested badly last night, and paced up and down his room until 5 o'clock this morning, restless and uneasy. Notwithstanding this he looked well this morning. Colonel Grant read some testimony taken yesterday to the general and the latter made some corrections. The general will revise his testimony before it is sent to the court to be placed in evidence.

NEW YORK, March 26.—The following will appear in the Medical Record March 28th:

"During the past week General Grant has been in a comparatively comfortable condition. Insomnia, with which he has been affected, has been controlled, so he obtains by the aid of anodynes a normal amount of sleep. He has not lost any flesh and his powers of assimilation are not impaired."

"At the weekly consultation attended by Drs. J. H. Douglas, H. B. Sands and George I. Shady, it was decided that the local disease is still in abeyance and that the area of the ulceration had not perceptibly increased. Virtually the same stationary tendency was noticed by Dr. Fordyce Barker, who has visited General Grant at intervals during that period. The swelling under the right angle of the lower jaw is somewhat greater, but the gland in that situation is not more indurated, nor has it become more firmly fixed. The ulcerated surfaces in the throat and on the tongue are covered with a yellowish exudation to which an alternate application of lime and water and a weak solution of permanganate of potash have been effectively made by Dr. Douglas. There is no pain in the swelling, nor of any encroachment of the ulcerative process upon the neighboring blood vessels. The general is able with no other assistance than that of his cane to walk to and about his rooms, ascending and descending the stairs, and was strong enough to enjoy a drive in his carriage during the fine afternoon of Wednesday."

The District Telegraph company will establish a private electric call system, for fire, police and carriage call service, throughout the city.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS

THE BEST TONIC.

This medicine, combining Iron with pure vegetable tonics, is especially beneficial in cases of Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Weakness, Impure Blood, Malaria, Chills and Fever, and is an unrivaled remedy for Diseases of the Kidneys and Liver.

It is invaluable for Diseases peculiar to women, and all who lead sedentary lives. It does not irritate the teeth, cause headache, or induce constipation—other medicines do. It enlivens and purifies the blood, stimulates the appetite, aids the assimilation of food, relieves heartburn and belching, and strengthens the muscles and nerves.

For intermitting fevers, malaria, lack of energy, etc., it has no equal.

SIXTY MILES AN HOUR.

Minute Palmer Carried over the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago Road at Lightning Speed.

A special train over the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago road this week carried the Minnie Palmer troupe over a portion of the road at an average speed of sixty miles per hour. The train sheets show that the train, leaving Crestline, made the run to Pittsburg, 190 miles, in exactly five hours and one minute. To Jack's Run, on the Allegheny City line, the time was four hours and thirty minutes for 185 miles. The train had to run much slower from there into the Pittsburg depot. Through Ohio every place where two railroads cross a full stop must be made by trains a given number of feet from the crossing and all of the large towns prohibit fast running; consequently speed must be diminished. There are twelve stops at such crossings and three towns where speed must be slackened between Pittsburg and Crestline, and the minutes lost were thirty; so that this quick race could have been lowered even an hour, counting the time lost at those places and while coming through Allegheny. The average rate of this special was thirty-eight miles an hour, but the greater portion of the distance was run at the rate of sixty miles an hour, or a mile a minute.

After a Theological Discourse. (The Judge.)

If you will go to hear Bob Ingersoll on "Orthodoxy," don't go home and air your ideas to your wife, more especially if she happens to be a minister's daughter.

How to Run a Slow Race.
(Texas Slings.)

Two sporting characters, A and B, proposed to run their horses, the slowest to win. They tried to make the race, but did not succeed, for as each rider wanted to come in last, they went slower and slower, and finally came to a standstill. They did not know how to run the race until a happy thought occurred to one of them.

They simply swapped horses. A rode B's horse and B mounted A's horse. Each rider then did his best to make the horse he was on go as fast as possible, so as to come in first, so that his own horse, which the other man was riding, would be beaten, thereby winning the money as the slowest horse.

He was Quiet on One Point.
(Atlanta Constitution.)

"Finder," severely demanded Mrs. Fitzgerald, "did you take your medicine last night?" "Yes, ma'am," sweetly answered that cherub. About an hour afterward the lady found the mixture of compound bitters that had been intended for Finder's cold lying snugly under the washstand. "Finder!" she yelled. "Yes, ma'am." "I thought you told me you had taken your medicine." "So I did, ma'am, but you didn't ask me where I took it, so I kept quiet on that point." But he didn't keep quiet on the point of her rod.

A Warning to Whistlers.
(Puck.)

A Vermont man whistled for what he thought was his dog in the distance.

But it proved to be a bear.

The Difficulties of Arkansas Journalism.
(Through Mail.)

It costs more to run a newspaper in Arkansas, according to an exchange, than in any other state of the Union. It is pretty generally known that the principal item of expense is the salary of the surgeon on the staff. In Arkansas, when an editor feels a man, he is not sood. The outraged citizen simply arms himself with a double-barreled shot-gun and makes a sieve of the editor. Arkansas editors find it convenient to have a surgeon employed by the year to sit at a desk in their respective offices and be ready to act at any moment.

A Wicked Editor.
(Philadelphia Call.)

Trate Subscriber—I want to see the fellow that wrote this article.

Western Office Boy—Must a been the editor, I guess.

"So I suppose. Where is he? Where is he, I say?"

"He's not in."

"Oh, he ain't in, ain't he? Ain't he, oh! Well, where is he?"

"He's attendin' the funeral of a man what called to see him on Monday."

The Unconscious Sublimity of Youth.
(Fall River Advance.)

Nothing is more sublime than a mother's love, unless it be the first pair of pants which she makes for her little boy. And happily the little innocent never knows the sensation he makes when he is hoisted into his fond mother's work and trots around with the sitting-down curves of them in front of him.

Paris and American Journalism.
(Norristown Herald.)

A monthly journal published in Paris is devoted to nothing but the art of "stamp collecting." There are quite a number of daily and weekly journals in this country devoted mainly to the same thing; but some of them lose more "stamps" than they collect.

Overboarded by the Season's Sport.
(Lancashire Commercial.)

As a permanent attraction the new administration will not be a success. It opens too near the base ball season.

Somerville Journal: A Leviston man who bought a cow recently thought he had been cheated, because he found when he got her home that she hadn't any front teeth in her upper jaw. He must have been a milkman.

JOHN RANDOLPH.

A Brief Sketch of the Noted American Statesman.

John Randolph of Roanoke, an American statesman, was born in Virginia in 1773 and died in Philadelphia in 1833. His parents were of ancient and wealthy families, and on his father's side he was descended from Pocahontas, the Indian princess, who saved the life of Capt. John Smith, that valiant and adventurous English explorer. Randolph served for many terms as a Representative and Senator in Congress, and was also Minister to Russia. His fluency of speech, skill at retort and acrimonious wit made him the leader of his party in Congress.

He was tall and very slender and cadaverous, with long, skinny fingers, which he was in the habit of pointing and slaking expressively at those against whom he spoke. His voice was shrill and piping, but under perfect command, and musical in its lower tones. His favorite weapons in debate were invective and sarcasm, and for many years his sharp and reckless wit made him a terror to his opponents in the House.

A few miles from Charlotte Court House is the old residence of John Randolph of Roanoke. It was here he spent most of his time in solitary study, after Congress had adjourned. He had no wife to cheer his declining years, nor children to engage his thoughts. No man called him his intimate friend, and he had few visitors. For days and sometimes weeks no one saw him but his negro servants. He went to his books for solace and burned the midnight oil when other men were busy with their dreams.

Sometimes he hardly slept at all, and one who knew him relates that when a boy he would visit Mr. Randolph. He slept on a pallet, spread on the floor, and Randolph on the bed. He awoke one morning about 3 o'clock and saw that his bed had not been disturbed. The door leading to the library was open, and he glanced in and saw his host arranging his books and singing very softly, in a sweet voice, "Rock of ages, cleft for me; let me hide myself in thee."

He naturally had a sharp, shrill voice, but the youth said he was never more impressed in his life than he was in the gray of the morning, listening to the sweet old hymn, from the lips of the man whose sarcasm was so much feared in political debate.

Sometimes Randolph would become lonely and get some of the boys from the school to come and stay with him for perhaps a week. Their parents were always ready to accommodate him, for they knew they could not be otherwise than benefited.

Mr. Randolph was passionately fond of horses, dogs, and guns. He had one of the finest stables in Virginia; indeed it seemed to be more comfortable than his residence. He spared no expense in getting the best horses and repeatedly imported fine blooded stallions from abroad. He sold many horses of his own raising, and much of the money made in this way went to pay off the enormous debt which hung over his estates. He was a splendid rider, and people often marveled that so slight a man as he could such fiery horses for his own use.

He was probably the last man in Virginia in political life to use a coach and four. It was employed as an argument against him by the politicians, who called him an "aristocrat." But he kept his coach until his death. When he went to Philadelphia to embark for England he went in his coach, with its liveried coachman and footman, its two outriders, and his body servant, John.

He had many dogs, all of them blooded, and was an enthusiastic fox hunter. His dogs went with him everywhere. When he left for Congress three or four followed at his heels, and no one would molest them. He seldom visited, but when he did he brought his pack with him, and they must be allowed to come into the parlor, the dining-room, everywhere that he went. He imported the finest guns from England, though he did not use them half a dozen times a year. Among his firearms he had the finest pair of dueling pistols in the State. He firmly believed in the duello, and used them three times himself.

Randolph owned hundreds of slaves, but they were all, with a single exception, left him by his father. This one he bought of a slave-dealer out of pity for his condition. The houses that the slaves lived in were as good as his own, and they were treated better than any slaves in the country. You could always recognize them by their politeness; the men would always raise their hats and the women stop and make a courtesy when they met a white person on the road.

His slaves feared him, but he was generally very kind to them. They loved and almost worshiped him, for, to their humble minds, his lofty bearing and brilliant mind made him appear as a being of a different mold from those who were around him. Their spiritual wants were also attended to. Frequently ministers were invited and paid to preach to them in a way fitted to their comprehension, and after the services were over he would address them himself. He had confidence in the oldest of them, and they loved and respected him.

At his death all of them were set free, and money put into the hands of his executors to transport them from the State of Virginia. This was by his will of 1821, which was the one admitted to probate. In the will of 1823-31-32 he did not give them their freedom, though on his death-bed he made the will of 1821 good. His words in the will were: "I give and bequeath all my slaves their freedom, heartily regretting that I have ever been the owner of one."

A former invalid writes: "I was greatly reduced in health and strength, caused by bad blood. I had a dozen boils in different parts of my body, and suffered many aches and pains, while the least exertion gave me great fatigue. I took three bottles of Dr. Guyot's Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla and am completely cured. At night I enjoy refreshing, dreamless slumber, and all day I feel energetic and strong."

HUMOR.

The song of the mill is always hopper-time.

The latest returns—husband getting home from the club.

Nothing is impossible to him who wills—unless he is a married man.

It is because ignorance is bliss that court'ng is so much pleasure to young people.

"Suites to the sweet," as the man said when he took his young wife to live in a flat.

A rural obituary relates that "the deceased had accumulated a little money and ten children."

When a boy of 18 runs away with a girl of the same age the proceeding may be called a verdant slope.

An eminent savant was introduced at an evening party to a rather young lady. "O, Mr. —," she said, "I am delighted to meet you. I have so long wished to see you." "Well," said the man of science, "and pray what do you think of me now that you have seen me?" "You may be very clever," was the answer, "but you are nothing to look at."

There's the girl with the sniffling face. The girl with the witching eyes. There's the girl with the stately grace. And the girl that is sweet and shy. There's the girl with the winning air. The girl that's reserved and cold. There's the girl with the curly hair. And the girl that is rather old. There's the girl that is smart and tall. The girl with the dimpled chin. But the girl that beats them all. Is the girl that has got the tin.

A LADY in Cosytown discovered a mouse in the family flour-barrel. She summoned her husband, and told him to get a gun and call the dog, and station himself near the scene of onslaught. Getting up on a high chair, she commenced punching the flour-barrel with a pole. The poor mouse soon made its appearance and started across the floor, the dog immediately in pursuit. In the excitement the man fired the gun, killing the dog, and the lady fainted and fell off the chair. The man, thinking that she was dead, and fearing arrest for murder, cleared out, and has not been heard of since. The mouse escaped.

The American Eagle.

See the image of this bird on the standard silver dollar. He spreads his wings and seems as if about to scream with wild delight. Such enthusiasm may well possess the people who have been cured of chronic indigestion by using Brown's Iron Bitters. Mr. Thomas J. Purcell, yard master of Camden station of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, at Baltimore, writes: "There is nothing as good as Brown's Iron Bitters. It cured me of chronic indigestion, from which I suffered thirteen years."

Mrs. GLADSTONE was going for a walk at Hawarden, not long ago, when a party of visitors just approaching the castle met her. "I say, is the old gentleman at home?" said one of them. "Yes," said Mrs. Gladstone. "We want to see him," said he. "Follow me," was her reply; "I'll take you to him." She led the way to the front door and called out: "William, you're wanted." "By golly," whispered one of them, "she must be his wife."

"100 doses one dollar" is true only of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it is an unanswerable argument as to strength and economy.

MANY curious claims against the Government have been presented, but that of an Ohio man, named James B. Clark, who writes to Treasurer Wyman for a portion of an alleged $10,000,000 reported to be lying in the Treasury unclaimed, is the most amusing yet heard of. A good many years ago, while traveling in Kentucky, he sent $10 in a letter to his wife, but nothing had ever been heard of either letter or remittance, and he presumed the money was in the Treasury. Besides, his wife's uncle went to California, in 1859, and promised to leave her some money. The uncle had died since, but nothing had been heard of the legacy, which, no doubt, was a part of the unclaimed $40,000,000. He desired the Treasurer to look the matter up and turn over to him what was rightfully his own.

Do you wish freedom from aches, pains, sores, etc? Then purify the blood and strengthen the urinary and digestive organs, and build up your broken down constitution by using Dr. Guyot's Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla. It is gratifying to know that among intelligent communities this simple, harmless, yet effective remedy sells faster than the many bitters, iron medicines and pretended kidney cures, all of which rapidly weaken and ruin the stomach, liver, bowels and kidneys, by exciting these delicate organs to unnatural activity.

The Kendallville school board have employed Prof. Wright, of Mt. Sterling, Ill., to finish the school for the year. The professor is a graduate of Harvard, has had fifteen years experience in teaching and comes highly recommended. He is about forty years of age. Prof. Kibbe, the lecherous pedagogical preacher, has not been heard from.
Two signs of spring came with the south wind yesterday, one a prophecy, the other a proof. The wild geese, noisy and numerous, was flying northward pumping out its paradoxical "honk," doleful in sound but cheerful in effect, after such a prolongation of winter as we have had, and the wild geese, whatever may be said of its intelligence in a general way, is no fool of a prophet.
After the first of July there will be several changes in the postal laws, among others being one allowing postmasters at all offices of the third class, which includes three or four in this county, a certain sum each year to pay office rent. The postmaster general is also authorized to issue a special stamp of the denomination of ten cents, which when affixed to a letter will insure its immediate delivery between the hours of 7 p. m. and midnight, if addressed to any place containing more than 4,000 inhabitants.
The Steuben Republican says: "At the high school building, Saturday evening, Prof. Yocum, of Fort Wayne, lectured on the subject of 'Education.' Those who were present speak of the lecture in the highest terms—Prof. W. F. Yocum, of Fort Wayne college, occupied the pulpit in the Methodist church, Sunday morning and evening, and was greeted by large congregations both times. He is an eloquent and pleasing speaker, and we feel sure we but voice the sentiments of all who heard him when we express the wish that he may find it convenient to visit Angola often."
General Anson Stager, who died yesterday morning at his Chicago home, is well known in Fort Wayne. He was at the head of the war telegraph under General McClellan and the extensive and elaborate system of telegraphs in use on all the railroads of the west and north-west owes its origin to him. On one of General Stager's many trips in the interests of the Western Union Telegraph company an engine on the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago railroad broke down at night, nine miles from any office. Stager cut the wire and by touching the ends telegraphed to Pittsburg and Brighton for another engine. By fixing one end of the line above and the other beneath his tongue, the electric pulsations could be felt and he thus received reply that another engine would be sent at once.

OUR LATEST GIFT.
The State Senate Authorizes the County Commissioners to Establish a Reformatory Here.
The bill by Senator Foulke, amending the act creating the reformatory institution for women and girls, was passed by the state senate yesterday. It provides that girls convicted of criminal offenses may be sent to homes for friendless women, instead of being imprisoned in jail, at the option of the local court. It will apply only to Marion, Wayne, Allen and Tippecanoe counties. The bill further empowers the boards of county commissioners to expend $5,000 on building and also to contribute to its support. It is entirely probable the commissioners will establish a home here and in that way abandoned women can be cared for instead of sent to jail, as is now the custom. The object is to reform the girls and make them good members of society.
THE APRIL WEATHER.
A Forecast of the Month for the Benefit of the Prospective Readers of the Sentinel.
In order to facilitate future business THE SENTINEL presents Livingston's weather forecast for April. The predictions say that April will open with clear, cool weather until the 5th. The afternoon of the 4th will be warm and cloudy, with storms till the 7th, clear and cool weather, then generally stormy until the 18th. Several storm centers will cross the continent from the 10th to the 18th, each followed by cold, with liability of frosts as far south as the Ohio river. Frost may be expected from the 18th to 20th; warmer on the evening of the 20th, followed by threatening weather on 21st, with storms until the 24th. Clear and cool weather will prevail from the 24th to 26th. The rest of the month will be warmer, with rain on the 28th and 29th, clear on the 30th. The storms during April will be more local. Localities where droughts have prevailed will be likely to get rain about the 11th and 12th and 17th and 18th. Warmer days about the 5th, 11th, 17th, 23d and 26th. Earthquakes, if any, on the 6th, 12th, 17th, 23d and 29th. The cooler days will be on the 7th, 13th, 19th, 25d and 30th. The indications now are that spring will be quiet.
AMUSEMENTS.
"Casting a Boomerang."
Augusta Daly's "720-9," or "Casting a Boomerang," was given to a nice assembly at the Temple last night. The play is adapted from Schontham's Schwabenstraiche. It is an exceedingly clever piece of work. The lines are bright and epigrammatic, the wit sparkling and fairly bristles with clever side issues and sub-plots abounding in comical situations. It is a most refreshing and amusing play, full of genuine humor and utterly free from vulgarity and coarseness. The company is but fair and a few of the members can improve themselves. Their acting, however, did not detract from the interest in the play, which pleased everybody exceedingly.
THE POLO GAME.
The Chicago team again vanquished the Indianapolis polo players last night. But three of the Hoosiers reported for duty and the Chicago youths had it easy. The Indianapolis club cannot begin to play polo against the Chicago people, who toy with them. The next attraction at the Academy is a race for the cham-pickship of Indiana, Monday next, between Herbert Tomlinson, of this city, and Homer Williams, of Richmond.

THE PRINCESS.
This popular resort was packed again last night. Two hundred and fifty ladies and gentlemen were on the floor. The music at this rink is superb. To-morrow night is music night again and Messrs. Foote & O'Connor announce that beginning next Monday they will have music every night.
THE CITY RINK.
Col. Shuman had a big crowd last night and his prize to the best lady skater attracts.
Fighting Over the Telephone.
The Central Union Telephone company and the Wabash, St. Louis and Pacific railway company are having a time about the telephone used by the latter company. The railway company has been using the instruments in consideration of transportation over the road for the head telephones officials, and when the telephone company wanted to curtail expenses by taking out instruments at minor points along the Wabash system the superintendent of the telegraph kicked and said they must all go. The removal of the telephones is a great inconvenience to the public, besides being a drawback on the business of the telephone company, who have taken an appeal to Manager Talmage, and the end is not yet.
Getting to be a Nuisance.
"I would be willing to take affidavit that at least 100 persons come to my store every day and ask for advertising cards," said a Calhoun street grocer, "and the confounded things are getting to be an unmitigated nuisance. The custom of giving away picture novelties with purchases, has increased to such an extent that customers have arrived at the conclusion that they should get a Michael Angelo or a rebus with a bar of soap, or a pound of crackers."
There will be confirmations in the Lutheran churches next Sunday. In St. Paul's 54 children will be admitted to the faith; in Emanuel's, sixty-three; in Zion's, thirty-seven.

THE COURT HOUSE.
Daily Record of Litigation in Various Courts and the Notes of the County Officers.
John T. Glase has sued Wm. Young et al. for $140. T. W. Wilson is attorney for the plaintiff.
Mary Mason has sold to Mathias Bordenstein lot 154, Rockhill's second addition, on a quit claim deed.
Judge Taylor, in the superior court, awarded Daniel May a judgment for $1,527.25 against Joseph and Susan Manier.
In the case of the Eagle machine company against Merrifield, the jury verdict in the superior court was for the plaintiff, who recover their saw mill machinery.
Isabella Wilson was yesterday divorced, by Judge Taylor, from Ben Wilson, her husband. The woman was also permitted to resume her maiden name, Isabella McMillan. Wilson was at work on the Standard hotel when he married Isabella. After the ceremony he took her money and skipped the village, to be seen no more.
In the case of Dickerson vs. the town of Monroeville there was a verdict of 25 cents damages for Dickerson. The town marshal of Monroeville put Dickerson's hogs in the pound. Dickerson pulled the pound down and let the porkers out. The marshal locked them up again and then resulted the suit for damages and a verdict of 25 cents. There were four lawyers in the case, fifteen witnesses, it took two days to hear the controversy, and now the costs foot up about $200.
Nelson Nelson and Anna Miller (colored) were licensed to marry yesterday. The ceremony was solemnized in a barber shop on Broadway last night, and at midnight the people were serenaded by the colored band. An extended reception followed and the festivities grew spirited and chivvrons.
The general impression is that the Nickel Plate will go into the hands of a receiver upon the default of interest, which it is expected will be made on April 1st.
